Xinbo Wu is professor at the Center for American Studies and Associate Dean of the School of International Relations and Public Affairs at Fudan University in China, as well as Vice-President of the Shanghai Institute of American Studies. He teaches China-U.S. relations and writes widely about China's foreign policy, Sino-American relations and Asia-Pacific issues.

Wu is author of Dollar Diplomacy and Major Powers in China, 1909-1913 (Fudan University Press, 1997) and has published numerous articles and book chapters in China, United States, Japan, Germany, South Korea and India. He is also a frequent contributor to Chinese and international newspapers.

Wu received a B.A. in history in 1986, and a Ph.D. in international relations in 1992, both from Fudan University. He has also been a visiting scholar at George Washington University, and a visiting fellow at Stanford University's Asia-Pacific Research Center, the Henry Stimson Center in Washington D.C., and the Brookings Institution.

Wu is currently a 2006-07 Jennings Randolph Senior Fellow at the United States Institute of Peace.
